20th Annual Convention at Niagara Falls, August 3-4-5, 1939.
(Instalment Number 1)

The World's Fair

On to New York and the World's Fair was the objective of about 170 of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association convention party, which terminated its sessions in Niagara Falls on Saturday, August 8. As the newspaper convention closed, there assembled an international convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, with headquarters at the Grand Brock hotel, and with five smartly uniformed bands, including a kilts band and a sea cadets' band, paraded and assembled in a large open space fronting the hotel. A smartly uniformed company of ladies marched in the procession, executing interesting formations, presenting a colorful picture in their bright costumes. At the same time a Maharajah from India, with his entourage, spending the day at the Falls, viewed the proceedings with keen interest.

Early Sunday morning, the convention party was conveyed to the New York state side of the international boundary, where three air-conditioned coaches were reserved for the day's run to New York on the N. Y. Central Line. The countryside is similar to that of the Canadian side, and the railroad follows the water level of the Mohawk and the Hudson rivers almost the entire journey, very pleasant indeed.

The second largest metropolis of the world was reached at 7:30, where a long line of taxi-cabs quickly conveyed passengers and baggage to the Barbizon Plaza hotel, famed for its Continental breakfast, its lovely view of Central Park, its atmosphere of charm—forty stories of modern architecture, in the heart of the metropolis. (No charge for free publicity). Speaking of its Continental breakfast, this was an innovation to the visitors. It dispenses with waiting for breakfast, or searching for the dining room, for between 7 and 7:30 a.m. your breakfast is quietly pushed through a small spring shutter in the bottom panel of the room door. It consists of a small thermos bottle of tea or coffee, sugar, milk in a small individual container, rolls, butter and jam or marmalade, all individually packaged and the whole contained in a sealed cardboard carton; the necessary plate, cup, saucer, spoon, etc., being placed in position each day as the rooms are cleaned. If you are in a hurry, you can eat breakfast on the jump, come down the elevator and start out on your day's activities—or, if you are lazy, just hop back into bed. No ordering to be done, no time to be given—it's easy!

Hardly had the party arrived at the hotel than busses were waiting to make a "Rubberneck" tour of the high spots of "Lil' Ol' New York." The busses were supplied by courtesy of the Lectrotour Corporation, a firm which supplies newspapers with outfit for reproducing half-tone pictures. Wealth and poverty, as seen in the various quarters covered by the tour, are in striking contrast, some of the slum areas being a blot on this great city, but which are being cleaned out as rapidly as finances will permit. Youngsters sitting on the curbs of the sidewalks yell "Rubberneck" as the busses pass, evidently deriving delight from greeting visitors in this manner.

All the important places are pointed out as you rapidly pass on, and it would take too much space to describe the details of even a brief two hours' tour in the heart of New York. The Tombs (gloomy prison), the Supreme Court, the place where Eddie Cantor was born and played vaudeville in dowdy haunts, are among those pointed out, and to give visitors an opportunity to look around, a stop was made at the Battery, where great ships are lying close by, and the lights on the Statue of Liberty can be seen gleaming in New York harbor, while overhead a dirigible floats along, the noise of its propellers being dimly heard above the roar of the traffic, even though it is rather late on Sunday evening.

Calling at a bar with a companion to refresh ourselves with a couple of glasses of beer, we became rather indignant when the barkeep pushed back Canadian silver, and demanded American money. However, that's the rule in New York, despite the fact that American money is accepted without demur in Canada.

It was after 11 p.m. when we returned to the hotel, and after a long day, and the prospect of early rising in the morning to go to the Fair, most of the party lost no time in retiring, while those who apparently can do with very little sleep went out to see more of the night life of the big city.

At 8 a.m. busses were again in waiting for the newspaper party to take them out to the World's Fair, a distance of about ten miles. Many stoppages at intersections delay traffic, but after crossing the big Queensborough bridge, traffic eases a little, and finally the Fair is reached, the symbolic Trylon and Perisphere towering above all other buildings, and are the first to be seen from a distance.

Entering the Fair grounds, there being many turnstiles which register the number passing through, one is bewildered and amazed at the extent of the grounds and the exhibits. Built on what was a marshy dump known as Flushing Meadows, 1200 acres have been converted into a spotless city with surfaced walks, lawns, trees, full grown, transplanted from the countryside, lighting system and water works, and all the appurtenances of a fair-sized city.

It has its own bus service, police and guides. The specially constructed bus takes you anywhere within the Fair grounds for ten cents, while official sight-seeing busses give you an interesting tour for 50¢. If you want an individual guide, to push you around in a comfortable wheel chair, it costs more. Some, becoming tired of walking, take a wheel chair to have a rest, for it's hard on the feet with so much ground to cover, even if limited to viewing the exhibits in the buildings.

To attempt to cover the Fair in a newspaper story would take a column of reading matter, it is so vast, and there is so much detail to explain. Exhibits and pavilions of many nations cause one to marvel at man's ingenuity and the vision which made such a Fair an accomplished fact. Striking indeed was that of Soviet Russia, reputed to have cost $6,000,000, and also the building erected by Italy, while nearby one is struck with the tragedy of Czechoslovakia, its pavilion bearing an inscription to the effect that their country will rise again, and that the cost of completing the building was met by friends in the United States.

Soviet Russia makes much of the fact that its railways are state owned, one of the exhibits being models of locomotives built in Russia. A Canadian visitor, commenting on its railway being state owned, remarked: "However, that is nothing, we have one of those in Canada."

Glimpses of The World's Fair at New York

On the occasion of the visit of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, following the 20th annual convention in Niagara Falls, Ontario.

"MERRIE ENGLAND"

Among the many wondrous features of the World's Fair, that is of Merrie England, with its delightful atmosphere of old England, furnishing a striking contrast to that of its surroundings. Here in what might be described as a bit of England transplanted in its entirety to the world's second largest metropolis. A London "bobby" guided you through the portals, you smell old English lavender, "Beefeaters" stand on guard as they do at the Tower of London and St. James Palace; there is "the Old Curiosity Shop," made famous by the great English novelist, Charles Dickens; there is the Canterbury Inn with all kinds of liquid refreshments and barmen wearing red vests; in fact you are in Merrie England at least.

It was through the courtesy of the owners of Merrie England, Inc., that the entire party of Canadian weekly newspaper editors and their ladies were entertained at the Sugrave Club in "Merrie England," at which a dinner of good old English roast beef was enjoyed. Greeted by Mrs. Roy Cropper, hostess of the club, it was a delightful surprise to be presented to the Earl of Gosford, who spoke a few words of welcome to the visitors, thereby adding to the feeling that we were indeed in England.

His welcome was replied to by H. T. Halliwell, president of the C.W.N.A., who informed the gathering that it was of interest to note that the Earl was an officer in the crack British regiment, the Coldstream Guards, serving in South Africa during the Boer War, 1899-1902, at the same time that he was out there, chasing the Boers and being chased in turn by them.

During the dinner the Dagenham Pipe Band, a fine group of lady pipers from England, played selections, and in compliment to the party even played "O Canada" on the pipes, a feast which drew from Adam Solar, a past president, the remark that it was the first time he had recognized any particular tune on the bagpipes.

To attempt to cover the Fair in a newspaper story would take a column of reading matter, it is so vast, and there is so much detail to explain. Exhibits and pavilions of many nations cause one to marvel at man's ingenuity and the vision which made such a Fair an accomplished fact. ## GREENWICH VILLAGE AT NEW YORK WORLD'S FAIR

Older people will remember the "good nineties," when we sang "Two Little Girls in Blue" in New York and London, "The Ball is Over," "A Bicycle Built for Two," and many others of similar vein.

At Greenwich Village you see a section of "Little Ole New York" as it was in those days before automobiles were the rule, and brown derbies and ostrich feather hats were the vogue. Those were the days when the Police Gazette was in every barber shop, and mustaches were considered the finishing touches to a masculine turnout.

You live over these days again at the World's Fair, in the Amusement Area in close proximity to "Merrie England" is a reproduction of "East Side, West Side, All Around the Town," and if you are in hilarious mood, you will purchase a brown derby, made famous by Al Smith, and walk proudly around with a real Brown eye, regardless of the smiles or turned-up noses of the more sedate. The writer even had his photo taken in a brown derby, but would not dare publish it in The Journal, for readers might think it had been specially taken for the rogues' gallery of the New York police department. (shown on request only).

However, the members of Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association on their visit to the Fair were guests of the management of Greenwich Village, and it was a real snap you which accompanied the dinner tendered them. A bevy of dancing girls in very abbreviated skirts and low cut bodices gave a dance which would make sedate old maids blush, and they were followed by a group of the most ponderous belles, who despite their avoriduous, displayed remarkable agility as they too danced. And, when the ladies, with their abbreviated skirts, touched their toes without bending their knees, in the course of their dance, with their backs to the audience, someone remarked that we all like to see new faces. Well, the show was a scream, and at intervals a horse-drawn street car of ancient vintage makes its round. If you want gaity as it was known in the nineties, then you get a real touch of it at Greenwich Village, for it has the real atmosphere of those days when our pleasures were perhaps of a simpler nature than those of this jazz age.

It is reported that Ed. Donkin, president of the Independent Association organized at Cowley, has intimated that he is willing to co-operate in this movement.

Michel Espouses Moral Re-Armament

This is the heading of a leaflet headed "Crusader" issued on Michel-Natal, under the movement known as Moral Re-Armament. A rather dark picture is given of Michel by those issuing the leaflet, as the following indicates:

"Where in Canada is Moral Re-Armament needed more than in Michel-Natal? Here is a town in which people have relaxed their moral vigilance, a town on the verge of moral bankruptcy. A serious crisis of some kind is not far distant. Some people are already prophesying the self-annihilation of the town. But why wait until the dark days come upon us? If we delay action longer, we shall find ourselves morally impotent—incapable of striving for a better life. Now is the time when every man and woman, boy and girl in Michel-Natal must join the great crusade for Moral Re-Armament."

The names of those responsible for the publication are withheld, but here a sincere effort is being made to awaken people to their moral responsibility as citizens, not only of their home town, but as citizens of the world. If this objective is accomplished in awakening a sense of responsibility in only a small percentage who hitherto have remained indifferent, the effort will have been worthwhile.

Utmost Care Now Urged to Protect Forests

Forest Ranger J. H. Boulton asks The Journal to impress on the public the vital necessity of exercising all possible care to prevent an outbreak of forest fire. At this season after a prolonged dry spell the chances of fire are alarmingly increased, and campers and fishermen should take particular care to see that fires are absolutely out before leaving camping spots.

The last big fire in this immediate district was that of 1932, starting in Star Creek vicinity, which required 70 men to combat it, and destroyed thousands of acres of valuable timber.

The forests are part of the public domain, and the people should be as vitally interested in protection and prevention as the paid officials of the forestry service. The following was submitted by a forest lover.

A prayer there is at even heard By trees that shelter God's own birds;

They ask to be saved from an early pyre

And to stamp out the demon forest fire.

Liberals Adopt Reso- lution Favoring Co-Operation

Meetings Held at Lundbreck Pass Resolution With View to Co-Operating With Anti-Abertar Forces

Last Wednesday, and again on Monday evening, Liberals of this provincial constituency organized for the provincial election, and passed the following resolution:

That it is in the best interests of the Liberals of the constituency that a committee be named and given authority to meet representatives of other political groups opposed to the Social Credit government, to invite them to send delegates to a convention to be held for the purpose of nominating or endorsing a candidate under a name satisfactory to the convention.

It is reported that Ed. Donkin, president of the Independent Association organized at Cowley, has intimated that he is willing to co-operate in this movement.

Centralization v. Decentralization

What is best for Canada—greater centralization of government than already exists or, a larger measure of decentralization of administration? The foregoing question is one which is occupying a good deal of attention in the minds of the people of this country. It is a question which has a great many facets and one in which there is room for a great deal of honest difference of opinion, one of the reasons why it is assuming a good deal of prominence.

It is also a question about which there is a good deal of loose talking and consequently loose talking. It is a problem, however, which should, and must, be faced squarely and about which no snap judgment should be rendered in the popular mind, since the whole future destiny of the country depends upon the answer.

In this country there are two schools of thought, representing divergent viewpoints and they are represented both in Eastern and Western Canada, with the general trend of thought in the former, as expressed in public print, inclined to support more centralization of power in Ottawa.

There are those who contend that Canada, with its federal government, its nine provincial governments, its multiplicity of rural and urban municipalities and numerous minor local authorities with their satellite boards and commissions is very much overgoverned for a country with a population of about eleven millions to support them and their tax levies. It is thought that if some of these governmental groups were abolished or curtailed in number with their jurisdiction wholly or partially transferred to the remaining governmental entities, it would result in better government at less cost. They argue, doubtless with some justification, that fewer governments in the field with power to exact taxation would result in less overlapping, greater efficiency and greater economy and would, therefore, help to relieve the taxpayers of some of the burden of which they now complain.

Decentralization Argument

On the other hand, the advocates of continuance of the status quo, or even an extension of decentralization maintain, also perhaps not without some justification, that greater centralization of authority would result in the building up of a bureaucracy which might, in the course of time, become dictatorial in its attitude towards the needs and aspirations of the common people; that long range government by remote control is impractical in a country of such vast geographic expanse and wide range of different economic conditions as Canada, because of the difficulty, if not impossibility of central government catering to local requirements and of taking into consideration local conditions and that, in short, it is undesirable because any curtailment of local self government, constitutes a weakening of the democratic form of government, on the ground that local self government is the keystone in the arch of democracy.

Insofar as Western Canada is concerned, opponents of greater centralization of government further contend that if a greater measure of authority were vested in Ottawa, it would tend to militate against the interests of the west just so long as representation in the federal parliament and the voting power of the people in the east is greater than that of the west.

If the premises of both schools of thought can be accepted as fundamental and factual, the issue then boils itself down to this: Do the people of this country seek more efficient and more economical but perhaps less considerate government or are they willing to pay the price of a full measure of freedom and of close access to those who represent them, together with the greater responsiveness to their demands and requests which naturally goes with accessibility?

United Canada Angle

Then, of course, there is the question of Canadian unity of thought and purpose—a question which looms prominently at a time when dictatorships constitute a threat to the continued existence of the democracies.

This, too, is a very important phase of the problem of centralization versus decentralized administration and one which cannot be overlooked when this question is under review. It is an issue born of the international as well as the national and local conditions which affect the present day and probably the future welfare of Canada.

What the concrete outcome of the discussions of this highly important and difficult problem will be, it is impossible to predict at this stage. That there will be some measure of realignment of authority and jurisdiction is to be expected. Perhaps some middle course will be found which will result in greater economy and efficiency throughout the entire structure of government without loss of any of the individual liberties and privilege of accountability which the people of this country so much enjoy.

The question is one which the people of the country must ultimately determine for themselves and in view of its great importance it predicated the exercise of much care and thought. If the right answer is to be given and the solution most beneficial to the people of the country as a whole is to be found and applied.

Light Filter Tested

Makes Headlights On Motor Cars Invisible From Air

A special filter, which makes driving without lights unnecessary in an air raid, underwent a successful test by A. E. Maundrell at Brandon, Manitoba, riding in an eight-seater plane at altitudes of between 700 and 2,000 feet over the Shorshan airport at night, tried in vain to detect the headlights of four cars below them.

The filter acts in such a way, it is said, that while sufficient light is given to drive by, no beam can be seen from above.

How You May Reduce Varicose or Swollen Veins—Heal Ulcers

A Simple Home Treatment

The world progresses. Today many minor illnesses that took weeks to overcome can be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins, by all means start today. They will begin to shrink and disappear.

Just get an original bottle of Moonee's Special Oil and follow the directions and apply it night and morning to the affected part. You will be surprised to see how quickly the veins will shrink and begin to grow smaller and by regular use will disappear.

People who want to reduce varicose veins or swellings, should not buy a bottle of oil, but get the oil prepared and economical which a small bottle lasts a long time.

A Mistaken Tradition

Drowning Persons Can Sink More Than Three Times

Two struggling girls, locked in each other's death embrace, were rescued from the Howard River after sinking for the third time. The extract from an eastern paper shows the difficulty in disposing of an old tradition or legend, says the Port Arthur News-Chronicle. There is no basis of fact for the assumption that drowning persons always sink three times. They may sink only once, or if they sink twice or three times to rise again, because of their struggles, they may do so four or more times. It all depends on the circumstances.

The pupil of the eye is so-called from the Latin word pupilla, meaning little dot, because you can see a small miniature of yourself when you look in another's eyes.

The United Kingdom is using much more than half the world's paper supplies.

An Interesting Test

Shows Men Tend To Lose Hearing Sooner Than Women

One person in seven has defective hearing, a preliminary analysis of more than three-quarters of a million individual tests by the Bell Telephone Laboratories revealed.

Hearing becomes less acute with age and men tend to become hard of hearing sooner than women, the tests also show.

The higher tones are lost first, but these are the ones not used in conversation. One person in twenty-five has trouble hearing speeches and one in 125 finds ordinary conversation difficult to follow.

The tests show that there is no difference between tests taken in the morning and those taken at night. Laboratory scientists were a little indignant at this fact, because it indicated fatigue did not affect hearing.

Already more than 500,000 have taken the tests in New York and more than 250,000 in San Francisco.

During the test, a person listens with a telephone receiver to scientifically adjusted tones of various pitches that grow fainter until the point is reached where the listener can no longer hear them.

Each listener makes a record of his hearing by writing numbers on a specially prepared form. An attendant then puts a check on the form that indicates age, sex and race and runs it through a machine that automatically photographs it.

Fickle Appetite

South African Eats Glass And Safety Razor Blades

A Durban, South Africa, teacoom recently entertained a "human ostrich".

He was J. Coetzee, of Christiansburg, Mr. Coetzee walked into the teacoom and asked for tea and sandwiches. When he was served with these he asked for glass. The waiter thought he was mad, but gave him some old electric light bulb glass.

Mr. Coetzee broke these up and ate them. He washed the glass down with sandwiches and tea. He then had some more glass and a safety razor blade. He finished his tea by bending an eight-inch nail between his teeth. He claimed that this was good exercise for the jaws.

He said he had been eating glass since he was three, yet had never suffered any trouble. When he was 13 he received a thrashing from his mother for eating all the tumblers in the house.

Cannot Be Explained

Unless Taken For Stroll Chinese Canary Will Not Sing

"It is an unexplained but undeniable fact that the Chinese canary—that appears no different to others of the breed—refuses to sing unless taken for its evening stroll," declares Walter B. Harris, former London Times correspondent. In the public places of Peking can be seen every afternoon and evening, a number of men, mostly of good condition, parading their canaries in carefully shaded cages.

It might be thought that the fact that the cage is covered and the bird is allowed to enjoy the scene around would act as a deterrent to the songster, but no. Perhaps it is the gentle soothing slow swing of the owner's walk, or gratitude for the trouble he is taking. Whatever the cause, the bird, silent during the promenade, will repay his master in melody at home."

Gift From Officers

Silver Rose Bowl Presented To Lady Patricia Ramsay

Colonel Hamilton Gault, presented Lady Patricia Ramsay with a silver rose bowl on behalf of past and present officers of the Princess Pats (the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry), on the 25th anniversary of formation of the regiment. Colonel Gault, then of Montreal and now residing in England, raised and equipped the famous regiment in the first few days of the Great War. It was named after Princess Patricia, who at that time was living at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, where her father, the Duke of Connaught, was governor-general.

Just His Bad Luck

"The almonds of life come to those who have no teeth," says an old adage, and A. E. Maundrell of Mount Forest, Ont., has evidence to prove it. At a draw held in conjunction with the recent carnival, Mr. Maundrell won a permanent wave. But the days when he might have appreciated it are gone, perhaps forever. He is bald.

Fourteen million tons of coal are required annually to supply the locomotives, workshops, hotels, etc., of the British railways.

Letters Were Mixed

But Man Won Wife Instead Of Shotgun He Ordered

Twenty-five years ago Max Bachum sat down to write a couple of letters. One was a message to his sweetheart. The other was an order for a 12-gauge shotgun. Before long, he received a reply to the love note—from the Chicago mail order house where he had intended to buy the shotgun. He liked the letter from the girl clerk who wrote the reply, so he answered her. That started a regular correspondence.

Finally Bachum went to Chicago, visited the mail order house, and met the girl. They have now celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a farm in Weatherford, Okla.

In all those years Max Bachum has had nothing more about the order for the shotgun.

Presbyterian Church In Ontario Town Sticks To Ancient Rules

A Presbyterian church and congregation in South Kinloss, Bruce county, Ont., are strictly preserving the ancient Scottish ways of worship.

A mile north of Lucknow, situated on a hill, is a white brick church, where no organ has ever sounded and no hymns have ever been sung. Only psalms and other words of scripture are sung. John Macdonald, Sandy his friends, has been precentor of Kinloss church for 58 years and says he is the only man performing this duty church in Canada. He is 73.

Sandy still works in the fields and recalls it was back in 1881, when he was only 15, the congregation needed a precentor, which he explains was the rule in all Presbyterian churches back in Scotland, leading the song service.

In 1852, when the Scots founded South Kinloss, it was with the agreement that the old customs and rules of the Scottish Presbyterians would be retained.

Rev. G. M. Young is minister and in the cemetery nearby is a monument, intended to be the only one in Ontario made of iron. It is to the memory of Rev. Alexander MacKenzie, who died Nov. 13, 1894, aged 75.

The church is supported by 45 Scotch families.

Men Under Arms

NUMBER OF SOLDIERS IN EUROPE ESTIMATED TO BE EIGHT AND A HALF MILLION

Europe's men under arms, exclusive of naval and air forces, were estimated at 8,500,000 by a military writer for Reuters News Agency.

The writer concluded that there appeared to be "a fairly even balance" at the moment between the land forces of the Rome-Berlin axis and the British-French front and associated powers.

The breakdown of the estimates: France, 1,000,000; Britain, 600,000; Poland, 500,000; Turkey, 300,000; Roumania, 274,000; and Greece, 209,000; total, 2,873,000.

The Rome-Berlin axis: Italy, 930,000; Germany, 1,750,000; total, 2,700,000; or 2,900,000 if 200,000 is added for Hungary.

Segregated forces were figures of 150,000 for Spain and 300,000 for Yugoslavia.

In still another bystander or neutral category were 400,000 for Bulgaria, Belgium, the Baltic states, the Netherlands, Portugal and Switzerland.

The review concluded:

"The biggest counterweight is naturally Soviet Russia, whose 2,000,000 men would give a marked predominance to any group with which they made common cause."

Trade Agreement Has Been Signed Between Germany And Russia

Berlin.—Conclusion of a trade agreement between Germany and Russia was announced, opening Russia's rich natural resources to the Nazis.

Germany granted the Soviets an $80,000,000 credit and Russia promised to deliver $72,000,000 worth of products within the next two years.

Announcement of the agreement came while military talks among Great Britain, France and the Soviet Union were reported encountering difficulties such as arose during the political talks for a mutual assistance pact among these powers.

The Nazis were expected to import on a much larger scale than ever before vital Russian raw materials, including manganese and other ores, lumber, gasoline and oil, sulphur and chemicals.

Russia will use the German credits to buy machinery for making needed tools and spare parts.

Politically opposed, the two countries in recent years permitted their trade volume to slip until last year it was 100,000,000 marks ($40,000,000).

Nazi spokesmen were confident of an immediate pickup in commerce because they said that Germany, the industrial state, and Soviet Russia, a land of inexhaustible raw materials, "complement one another economically in a most natural manner."

It may be assumed, they said, that Germany's capacity to absorb Russian materials is "without limit."

Hoppers Invade Toronto

Swarms Descended On City And Motorists Were Bothered

Toronto.—Riding on a light wind from the west, swarms of grasshoppers descended on several districts of Toronto.

Residents of a western city area reported the "hoppers" arriving in dark clouds from Willowdale park and all windows and doors had to be kept closed. Verandahs were covered with the flying insects.

Citizens on Bay and Yonge streets, in the downtown business districts, were amazed to find the pests had even invaded that part of the city. Motorists were bothered by the "hoppers" flying against windshields.

Lived Alone On Island

Boy Ten Years Old Found By Captain Of Cruiser

Guayaquil, Ecuador.—The commander of the Ecuadorian cruiser President Alfaro messaged here that he had found a 10-year-old boy living alone on one of the lonely Galapagos Islands far off the coast of Ecuador.

The boy's name was given as Jose Perez. The captain said the youngster told him he came to the islands three years ago with a family, but ran away into the interior because of ill treatment.

He had been living on seaweed, plants and roots. He will return to Guayaquil on the cruiser.

German Troops Building Trenches Near Polish Border

Gleiwitz, Germany.—German troops moving into the upper Silesian region have "dug in" within 300 feet of Poland's border.

A 40-mile ride along the German-Polish border showed that with the closing of "a section of the Polish border," German engineering troops have speeded up work on an already well-developed trench system.

From behind hills 18 feet high erected near the village of Schoenwald, six miles south of here, came the sound of grinding concrete mixers, the chugging of Diesel engines and the sucking of water pumps.

In the middle of fields dugout soldiers dug bombproof shelters and roofed in communication trenches. Driving on the Schoenwald road to the Polish border patrol house, nine-yard stretches of barbed wire were seen to extend over the rolling farms to the right and left.

Directly behind this maze of wire stand rusty iron tank obstacles, in the shape of gigantic jacks said to have been taken from the former Czechoslovak border fortifications.

Guarded hints were thrown out that Germany has left the door open

Boy Wins Rifle Match

Took First Prize In Competition With 250 Other Marksmen

Connaught Rifles Rangers, South March, Ont.—Competing in major events for the first time, James Boa, Jr., 17-year-old Toronto shot, won the Macdonald Brier match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association annual meet. He took first prize of $100 and the D.C.R.A. silver medal. He posted 122, three short of possible, to take the match over some 250 other marksmen, including his father, Lieut. James Boa, of Toronto, a veteran sniper and revolver shot.

Cadet Boa also fired a possible at the 300-yard range and a 72 at 500 yards. He was a member of the Canadian team which competed against a team of British Imperial cadets in the Michael Faraday match here last year.

Boa, Boa and R.Q.M.S. J. E. Bestock of Winnipeg, had scores of 121 but second place went to the Manitoba rifleman for his score of 72 at the longer range. Lieut. Boa had a 71 at the 600 yards. At the shorter range Boa had a possible and Bestock a 49.

Another Ontario marksman, Private D. H. Gibson, of Hamilton, won the Life Members' match when he fired a 48, two short of possible, at the 1,000-yard range.

Supreme Court Decision

Recent Ruling Says Farm Act Applies To Corporations

Saskatoon.—Rulings by the Manitoba and Saskatchewan authorities that a corporation does not qualify as a "farmer" under the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, and therefore was not entitled to benefits under this act were nullified by a recent decision of the supreme court of Canada, according to the Canada law reports which arrived in Saskatchewan.

The Saskatchewan board of review and the Manitoba court of appeal hitherto ruled that a farmer who transferred his affairs to a limited company lost the right to apply for benefits under the act. In brief, these courts decided that a corporation was not a "farmer."

By the decision of the supreme court of Canada the definition of "farmer" under the act was extended so that a corporation may be a "farmer".

The supreme court ruled in an appeal from a decision of Manitoba an that it was learned from reliable sources that the military agreement which was ratified between Slovakia and Germany places the little Slovak army of 30,000 and reservists numbering 300,000 under German command.

Slovakia's frontier extends for 200 miles along the southern border of Poland, and would offer German troops a chance at a wide-swinging flank attack on Polish industrial centers in south central Poland. The area of Slovakia is about 14,000 square miles since it became an independent republic on the eve of

Will Exchange Programs

More Co-operation In Radio Work Between Canada And Britain

New York.—A "new co-operation" between the Canadian and British broadcasting corporations was announced by Major W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the CBC, on his arrival here from London.

As a result of the "very favorable publicity" Canada received in the United Kingdom through the royal visit, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will send an increasing number of radio programs "of a national character" to British wireless listeners, Major Murray said.

Major Murray, who arrived aboard Pan-American's Dixie Clipper from an extended visit in Great Britain where he conferred with British Broadcasting Company officials, said the BBC will reciprocate with a series of programs specially designed for Canadian interest. These programs, of various character, will start in September.

"This marks the beginning of a new co-operation between Canadian and British broadcasting systems," said Major Murray.

Market For Alberta Oil

Alberta Could Take Unlimited Amount If Pipeline Feasible

Calgary.—Frederic Hudd, chief Canadian trade commissioner in the United Kingdom, stated "there is an unlimited market for Alberta oil in the Old Country if a pipeline can be made accessible and economically feasible," either to Fort William, Canada, or Vancouver.

Private British interests are waiting with interest the report of federal experts, headed by Dr. Charles Camsell, federal deputy minister of mines and resources, who are studying feasibility of a long-distance pipeline from Turner Valley, 32 miles southwest of Calgary, the commissioner said.

Mr. Hudd, who is in Canada in the interests of Canada's export trade, declared Alberta's oil delegation to England last spring had served a useful purpose and was highly successful in acquainting the British people with the oil situation in Canada's major oil field.

The Saskatchewan board of review and the Manitoba court of appeal hitherto ruled that a farmer who transferred his affairs to a limited company lost the right to apply for benefits under the act. In brief, these courts decided that a corporation was not a "farmer."

Additional Munitions Plants Expected

Canadian Munitions Plants Expect Additional Orders For Armaments

Montreal.—Joseph Simard, president of Marine Industries, Limited, of Sorel, Que., confirmed reports his company had received a contract from the British war office for manufacture of 25-pound field guns.

Simard said the contract would exceed $1,000,000 but he was not prepared to disclose the exact amount.

Quoting authoritative sources, the Montreal Gazette said that Canadian munitions plants were expecting additional orders for armaments from the British government. The orders particularly will include Bren guns, carriers, small tanks and two-pound anti-tank guns.

Newspapers Insist Danzig Alone Will Not Satisfy Germany

Berlin.—Germany has put into effect the so-called Danzig autonomy, which is a hasty but the most stupendous of their kind.

From the Tatra mountains in Silesia to the Baltic, the German army has been placed on a war footing, and the Danzig autonomy will not satisfy German pride and prestige. Pomorze, the so-called German corridor, is now openly stated, is also at issue.

If these pressure tactics should not produce an inclination to give Hitler what he wants, then he may be expected to seize upon two events to tell the German people and the world in person his demands.

These two events are the 25th anniversary of the battle of Tannenberg on Aug. 27 and the annual Nuremberg party congress Sept. 2-11.

Notes Signed By Canada And U.S. To Govern Air Transport

Accident In Shipyard

Aircraft Carrier Broke From Supply Boats Before Launching Ceremony

Belfast, Northern Ireland.—An aircraft carrier burst her supporting cradle in the shipyard where she was built and made a runaway launching into Belfast Lough, killing one woman among a crowd of spectators.

Twenty other persons were injured as H.M.S. Formidable, 23,000-ton newest addition to the royal navy, slid into the water prematurely hurling blocks of wood supporting her keel among the thousand spectators gathered to watch the ceremony.

Mrs. Isabel Kirk, one of the onlookers, was fatally injured, dying in hospital. A flying fragment struck her. Her husband suffered minor injuries.

The arrangement is based on the "desirability of mutually stimulating and promoting the sound economic development of air transportation between the United States and Canada," and provides for complete exchange of commercial flying privileges on a reciprocal basis. It will remain in force two years or longer, until terminated on six months' notice.

Each country agrees not to impose any restrictions likely to be disadvantageous to the air carriers of the other country. Each also agrees to use its best efforts to prevent imposition of limitations as to airports or connections with other transportation services and facilities in general.

The setting up of uniform safety standards is envisaged in a provision that the aeronautical authorities of the two countries "may communicate" for that purpose.

The arrangement is to apply to "continental United States of America, including Alaska, and to Canada, including their territorial waters," and the privileges set out are to be available only to air carrier enterprises "bona fide owned and controlled by nationals of the respective parties."

Each country agrees to permit air carriers of the other country to operate non-stop services through the air over its territory. Inland non-stop service between the United States and Alaska, however, is to be the subject of a separate understanding.

Each also agrees to grant operating rights to air carriers of the other country for international services between a place in one country and a place in the other country on a basis of reciprocity.

Air carriers of each country will be required to qualify under the applicable laws and regulations of the other before being permitted to engage in operations covered by the agreement.

Cabot Re-fueled In Air

First Time Fuel Performed On This Side Of Atlantic

Botwood, Nfld.—Imperial Airways flying boat Cabot was re-fueled in mid-air after taking off from Botwood for Foynes, Eire, first time the feat has been performed on this side of the Atlantic.

The Cabot, on her return flight to Southampton from Port Washington, N.Y., arrived at Botwood at 9:30 a.m., M.S.T., from Boucherville, Que., and took off again at 1:05 p.m., C.S.T.

Shortly after the take-off, a former bombing plane, which had taken off from Newfoundland airport and stayed at a speed of 120 miles an hour, the Cabot took on 800 gallons of fuel in seven minutes.

League Commission Withholds Approval Of Palestine Plan

Geneva.—The League of Nations' commission on Palestine withheld approval of Great Britain's plan to make Palestine an independent Arab Jewish state.

The commission's report was considered a first-round victory for the World Zionist congress here, in its fight for a Jewish national home in the Holy Land.

Reporting to the League of Nations council, the seven members of the mandates commission agreed unanimously the new British policy put forth in the May 17 white paper was a complete reversal of the usual interpretation of the British mandate.

Four of the seven said flatly they could not sanction such a change in policy involving limiting Jewish immigration to the Holy Land.

The other three, however, declared they considered the change justified by the Palestine situation.

Because of this split, the commission passed to the League council meeting next month the decision to approve or disapprove of the plan.

The three who supported the British position were a Briton, a Frenchman and a Portuguese.

The four commissioners against it were nationals of Switzerland, Belgium, Norway and The Netherlands.

The members serve as representatives of their countries. By a unanimous decision Palestine under a League mandate and the League must sanction any change in its terms.

London.—Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald disclosed he would go before the League of Nations council in Geneva next month to seek approval for the British Palestine plan which the permanent mandates commission refused to approve.

Government circles seemed not greatly disturbed over the commission's refusal although it was admitted this was the first time there had been such a divided opinion on any major question.

Other quarters indicated approval of the policy required unanimous consent of the League council and that, judging by the way the mandates commission reacted, this might be difficult to achieve.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

RUMOR hath it to the effect that the provincial government will not surface the highway between Bellevue and Coleman this year, that the only work to be done is to prepare the highway for surfacing next year. The Alberta Motor Association's official publication had the following in a recent issue:

"Completion of work on the main highway in the south will be followed by one outfit being put to work on the Macleod-Lethbridge area, one between Medicine Hat and Redcliffe, another on the 10-mile stretch between Coleman and Bellevue and a fourth will be given other projects to finish."

FROM this it would appear that the completion of the work will depend on a continuance of fine weather. If the surfacing is not completed there will be a strong outcry against the highway department, for car owners in the Past towns are deserving of prior consideration to the more sparsely settled areas where the highway is surfaced to attract mainly tourist traffic. The few miles between Bellevue and Coleman is an all-year utility highway, and car owners by means of licenses and gasoline tax are paying heavily, for which they are entitled to immediate consideration, and no more stalling.

LABOR in the Crows Nest Pass has definitely nominated its candidate in opposition to Social Credit, the principal reasons given being dissatisfaction over the government's administration of the compensation Board, its attitude towards Labor in regard to unemployed problems and the Mines Act. From adjoining towns a letter was sent to the premier by the mineworkers' organization regarding the alleviating of unemployment, and in reply the premier stated "that he feared an agitation for political reasons was being fostered by the mineworkers' organization."

AS a result of this attitude, a meeting at Bellevue nominated Enoch Williams, mayor of Blairmore, who in past years was an avowed Communist and visited Russia as a delegate from Canada. Not that this should be held against him as a representative of Labor, but farmers in the eastern portion of the constituency have intimated that they would not support a candidate who holds Communist views. There is also some question in Coleman as to the support he would receive here from the mineworkers, therefore it would appear that his strongest support would be Blairmore and Bellevue.

SOCIAL CREDITORS also appear to be divided and a letter from Rev. Roy Taylor, M.L.A., official organizer for the party in this constituency, attempts to discredit statements made by a vice-president of the temporary Pincher Creek-Crow's Nest constituency organization. The independent party organization, formed several weeks ago at Cowley, with Ed Donkin of Frank and Ed. Cosstick of Bellevue as president and secretary, is attempting to organize all opposed to Aberhartism, while the latest move is by the Liberals who by a resolution published in this issue are also endeavoring to accomplish the same purpose as the independent group. At present it appears most likely that there will be three candidates, two against Social Credit, and a nominee of that party. Under these conditions it would appear that there will be divided forces against Social Credit, which is to be regretted, for the uniting of all anti-Aberhart forces would certainly spell defeat for the Social Crediters.

ALBERTA'S credit has with a question been seriously damaged by the breaking of contracts by the present government, which attempts to bolster its cause by issuing misleading statements on the province's finances. Loan and mortgage companies cannot depend on the government's promises or its protection when it has repeatedly defied Federal authority and ignored its own obligations, and those of its predecessors. The head of a large company of seventy years experience of business in supplying printing machinery, was told that they are very hesitant to sell in Alberta, because debtors looking for a way to escape their obligations can take refuge behind provincial legislation. A further proof of lack of confidence is seen in the fact that no houses are being built under the National Housing Plan, while all other provinces are benefiting and people are enabled to build new homes under long term contracts. There is not a bright spot to which one can point after four years experience of Alberta's Bible Institute premier, who won the support of the people on promises which he had not the power to fulfill, and which he now attempts to excuse because much of his legislation was declared ultra vires by the courts of the land.

THE appointment of hundreds of supporters of Social Credit to official positions has been made, not in the public interest, but to bolster up a political machine to try and win the next election. As a result taxes have been enormously increased instead of dividends so glibly promised. It was indeed a pipe dream which won the election for Social Credit in 1925. You have only to recall the promises of that year and compare them with what has transpired.

YOU wouldn't keep a caller waiting on the doorstep if you valued his friendship or goodwill—therefore it is equally worth-while to answer telephone calls promptly. A customer might become impatient and hang up if kept waiting.

Public Business

Ottawa—More than 25 high public offices now await appointment by Prime Minister King and his colleagues. It is believed that decision on the date of a general election will be made before the bulk of these appointments will be made.

Going Up!

Calgary—Larger planes are being installed on the Edmonton to Lethbridge flight of the Trans-Canada Airlines because of the need for greater accommodation, said Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transportation, here on inspection tour.

"Planes are always filled to capacity and we could have done twice as much business," said Mr. Howe.

The Mining Industry

in Coleman has been developed by courage, foresight and careful planning. Payrolls during the 35 years of its existence have amounted to millions of dollars. Royalties paid to Federal and Provincial Governments have totalled vast sums, besides other taxes paid by the industry.

Around the mines of Coleman has grown a substantial town with water and lighting systems the equal of the large cities. Its latest improvement is surfaced roads. These improvements have been made possible through employment, taxes and wages.

It is to the vital interests of all who live in the Crows Nest Pass to foster and encourage the use of COAL—without the coal industry Coleman and other towns wouldn't be on the map.

Merchants Asked to use Caution with Solicitors

It is reported that merchants and other business men in the district are being approached by out-of-town solicitors for advertisements in some alleged railway workers' publication. These men, it appears attempt to give their prospective clients the impression that they are being backed by the various railroad organizations, and the railroad organizations in turn wish it clearly understood that there is absolutely no foundation for this contention, and wish for all interested to be so advised.

Protest on Business Tax For School District

A meeting of business men was held in the town hall on Thursday evening to discuss the school tax levied on the stocks in retailers stores. The assessment for school purposes is based on 100 per cent value of the stock, which with an increased mill rate is considered excessive. A letter has been forwarded to the department of municipal affairs in Edmonton asking for information as to assessment, and when a reply is received, a further meeting will be held.

Store-keepers report a heavy increase in school taxes this year, while from other ratepayers there is also some protest on the increase.

Elks' Carnival A Success

The Elks' carnival proved very successful, and many people journeyed from the Pass towns to attend. The bedroom suite was won by Wilfrid Carrier with ticket number 785, sold by H. Tiberghien. The kitchen suite went to Martin Ousden, of Blairmore.

Miss Olive Mills, Blairmore, was elected carnival queen and was presented with a lovely cedar chest.

THE UNITED CHURCH

The survivors of the group who tackled the re-roofing of the church buildings brought the project to a successful conclusion on Saturday morning. The generous response on the part of the congregation permitted the inclusion of the manse as well as the other buildings. The donation of time and labor was a very generous gesture and greatly appreciated.

The Sunday morning service was well attended. Reference was made to the departure of Miss Lorraine Kippon, who has acted as organist for the morning service and the Sunday school for the past six years. A presentation was made on behalf of the Sunday school. Her services have been faithfully and cheerfully given, and her going leaves a gap difficult to fill.

Next Sunday again there will be only the morning service. The congregation is asked to make the necessary effort to be present. Visitors and strangers are cordially invited.

Puzzled Eskimos

Interested In Air-Conditioning System
Of Vice-Royal Train

Just prior to the departure of the vice-regal train from Churchill, which carried Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir south after a short visit to this port, the train was given a close inspection by a party of Eskimos. Of particular interest to them was the work of the Canadian National car service men filling the ice bunkers of the air-conditioning equipment.

The party of Eskimos was taken on board the train and when they emerged, with perspiration pouring down their faces partly hidden by the heavy parkas, they chattered to one another excitedly as each piece of ice was safely stored away.

They laughed loudly and pointed at the ice and were completely puzzled. The white man's ways were beyond their understanding; to heat the car on the inside and put ice into it in large quantities on the outside was just too much. The white man sure must be all mixed up. Why did he not stop heating the moving igloos or stop putting ice into them, to do them both did not make sense in the Eskimo's way of reasoning.

They stood around for hours till the work was completed and finally went back to their boats. During the long winter nights they will tell their relatives and friends of the funny ways of the white man they saw with the moving igloos.

Not A General Failure

Western Crop Is Much Better Than
In Other Years

There will be no 400,000,000 bushel wheat crop in the West. But we can get along nicely if we have only 300,000,000 bushels. Every part of the West has some grain. There are no large areas with a general failure as there has been for several years past. There is seed and feed and grain to sell in sight in this year's crop.

In the provinces which may be engaged over the disaster, we have the bumper yields we had expected at the end of June rains, let us not take too gloomy a view of it. We are a lot better off than we have been in other years in the West.—Lethbridge Herald.

The shipwrecked party had spent many long months on the desert island. Then at last a large ship anchored in the bay and a small boat put off for the shore.

Standard Of Living High

People In Canada More Favored Than In Other Lands

Percy A. Francis, Poultry Commissioner of Great Britain, while addressing a service club in Connecticut in connection with his visit to the World Poultry Congress at Stamford, made some remarks that should make the American and Canadian people feel that their "lot has been cast in pleasant places" and that they possess "a goodly heritage."

There has been a tremendous amount of complaint against the protracted depression on this continent, but Mr. Francis confessed that he saw little of it in his journeys to and from. "It is hard for me to believe," he said, "that you are going through a depression. Yours is a land flowing with milk and honey." He further added that many of the luxuries that were considered commonplace by the American people were largely unattainable in his own country.

Of course the Commissioner was speaking on a comparative basis, and as a casual observer, with reference to European countries and to Britain. He did not see the idle factories and the millions of unemployed who were to be found all over the United States. He was speaking of the bright side as it appeared to a traveler. On the same basis he could have spoken very favorably of Canada, and if he had made the journey with the King and Queen across the country, he would have seen the same aspect of happiness and prosperity. Hence the face he made when he saw the same face percentage of the population unemployed through the curtailment of industry and business. However, perhaps Canadians and Americans do not sufficiently count their many blessings. If they did they might conclude that, notwithstanding all the disadvantages of the depression, they possess a high standard of living with innumerable conveniences and comforts that are not found in less favored lands.—Brantford Expositor.

Carved Miniature Home

Clock Made By Swedish Farmer Recalls 172-Year-Old Romance Tinkling tunes from a wooden clock still serenade a love that was lost 172 years ago.

Michael Horvath of Miami, Fla., the owner, says the clock was carved by Gustav Ellshoff, a Swedish farmer who lived near Stockholm. While engaged to be married, Ellshoff was stricken with blood poisoning. Both his legs were amputated.

As he lay in bed, Ellshoff carved an intricate detail a three-story miniature home. It was his Ta-Mahal. In it he carved all the things he had hoped to give to the girl his affection prevented him from marrying.

The clock has 12 glass windows and two glass doors. A grape vine encircles a porch. Clusters of tiny grapes hang from it. There is a drinking trough under a pump. Cut firewood is under the porch. Two figures—a man and a girl—emerge from the door when the clock strikes the hour. Then tiny chimes play one of four love songs.

The clock was completed in 1767.

An Impressive Story

What Parliament Of Britain Has Done Since Last September

After a nine-month session, the British Parliament prorogued and here is the story of what it did.

Nearly 3,500 millions were earmarked for this year's rearmament costs.

Pledges of military assistance were given to Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey.

Conscription was introduced by the calling up of 200,000 men each year.

The territorial army was doubled to a strength of 340,000 men.

Steps were taken by which Britain will have 1,000,000 men under arms this fall, with every anti-air raid battery, coastal gun and searchlight manned 24 hours a day.

A field force of 19 divisions was formed as the nucleus of an expeditionary force for fighting on the continent.

A Ministry of Supply was created to supervise annual purchases of 500 millions of war supplies and equipments.

It is an impressive story. People sometimes ask regarding Munich, "Why did Chamberlain not fight last September. One answer is in what has been done since Munich. If a nation has to fight—fight for its life—it had better choose its ground; and its weapons.—Ottawa Journal.

Canary As Witness

Bird That Objected To The Wife Beating Her Husband

"Birds and animals have on more than one occasion been brought into court as witnesses," said Lancelet Robson, telling some animal stories. "A canary was brought into court at Strasburg in 1928. A man was suing for separation from his wife, on the ground that she beat him. The man told the judge that the only witness he could produce was a canary, and a decisive one that canary proved to be. The man declared that when his wife beat him the canary went nearly frantic in his endeavor to get out of the cage to help him.

"The judge ordered the canary to be brought into court and told the wife to pretend to strike her husband. The canary went nearly mad with frenzy, flying against the bars, until a good deal of his plumage lay at the bottom of the cage, and the bird was in a state of exhaustion. The wife, so overcome by this evidence of the bird's burst into tears and confessed, and the judge gave his decision in favor of the husband's petition!"—London Listener.

Air Pilots' Jobs In Britain Canned

There are civil air pilots' jobs vacant in Britain worth up to $5,500 a year with two months holiday with pay—and nobody to take them.

There are always a number of pilots looking for jobs. But commercial flying must have particularly good types. The R.A.F. is sending them back to civil life as they need to. Forty reserve schools all over Britain training increasing thousands of Volunteer Reserve pilots need more and more qualified instructors.

Were Still Nice

An Irishman was standing at the rail of a ship, watching the gulls flying over the harbor.

"Nice flock of pigeons," he remarked.

"Those are gulls, my good man, said a fellow passenger.

"Well, gulls or boys, they're a nice flock of pigeons," answered the Irishman.

UZZIAH: A KING WHO FORGOT GOD

Golden text: Every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled; but he that humbleth himself shall be exalted. Luke 18:14.

Lesson: II. Chronicles.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 112:1-7.

Explanations and Comments

Uzziah's Pity and Prosperity. 2 Chronicles 26:3-5. When sixteen years of age Uzziah succeeded his father, Amaziah, upon the throne of Judah, and reigned for 52 years in Jerusalem. He failed his father to bring to Jehovah during the greater part of his reign, and Uzziah followed in his father's steps. Under the helpful influence of his chariot, the young man set himself to seek God, and as long as he continued to do this, God made him to prosper.

Uzziah's Pride and Transgression. 2 Chronicles 26:16-18. When he was strong his heart was lifted up with pride.

Uzziah did not deal presumptuously with holy things. He entered the Holy Place of the temple, separated only by the veil from the Holy of Holies, into which it was lawful only for priests to enter, in order to offer incense. Asaz, a priest, and 80 powerful priests followed and opposed the king. "It is not your right, O King, to offer incense," said Asaz to him. Rightfully the duty of the priests who had been consecrated to the task, "Go out of the sanctuary," they sternly commanded.

Uzziah's Wrath and Punishment. 2 Chronicles 26:19-21. Then Uzziah was wroth—and what king would not be when thus ordered? He had the censers in his hands and went out to call to cut off his purpose of offering incense when leprosy broke out upon his forehead. Those of us who have seen lepers sitting by the way side, half dead and half crazy, will know what a terrible sight they are. Uzziah, too, had leprosy on his forehead, and he himself hastened to go out.

The most terrible feature of this episode is the sudden front of leprosy on the king's forehead, is not without its spiritual antitype. Men's anger at well-merited reproof have often blighted their lives once for all with the madness of passion which they have hitherto restrained them and committed themselves to evil pursuits.

The remainder of his life Uzziah dwelt, a leper, in a separate house, while his son Jotham occupied the royal palace and governed as regent.

Canadian Legion is Powerful Agency And Ready For Emergency

The Canadian Legion is a bigger and more powerful agency than ever before, Brigadier W. W. Foster of Vancouver, Dominion president, told delegates to the British Columbia command's 13th annual convention, which was held at Kamloops, B.C.

Noting that with consolidation of progress made in the past year, the Legion has grown steadily, Brigadier Foster said "this fact and the opportunity provided by the unity that now exists in Canada for greater accomplishment, becomes a great responsibility for those who, like yourselves, are its leaders."

Brigadier Foster mentioned the national veterans' survey which resulted from his message to Prime Minister Mackenzie King during the European situation last September, offering the services of veterans in any capacity in which they could be utilized.

"I'll need plenty of tea, tobacco and sugar to trade for dogs with the Indians," said Alan, weakly.

"I'll give you plenty of money, but you mustn't show it at Fort George. They'd want to know where you got it. And I don't want them to know this summer that you've met me."

"But what will will do?" demanded Alan, impatiently. "Your men must have reached East Main before Christmas if they left here in November. Fort George would learn by the Christmas mail that you were in here, somewhere."

McCord nodded. "True, but my men didn't know we were on the Big River headwaters."

"So you don't want Fort George to know just where you are?"

"Exactly. If they learn that, you've met me, they might follow you when you come back with the dogs."

"Follow me? Why?" Again suspicion lurked in Alan's mind. "But they're following your Indians now—if they talked at East Main."

McCord slowly shook his hooded head. "They're not following my Indians."

"You mean you think they've deserted you and Heather? They'd take your dogs and money and not come back—leaving you here flat, without a dog or a man to help you?"

"That's just what I'm saying."

"Who were you expecting?" demanded Alan, suddenly determined to make an end to this mystery, "when I pounded on your door? You met me with a cocked gun! Whom were you expecting—somebody they were bringing back from East Main?"

Slowly the somber face of McCord relaxed in a smile of amused interest at the dark insinuation. He placed both hands on Alan's wide shoulders. "Steady now! You'll understand—it all later. You bring back the dogs this summer and you'll never regret it, lad. I give you my word you'll never regret throwing in with John McCord!"

"I'll get the dogs. I need them for myself, myself, myself!" The excited boy, snail, burning the bridges of his doubt. "The lure of this mystery, the magnetism of the blond bearded giant, had won."

And so, on the white shell of the river, as the crusted barrier to the east flushed in the afterglow of the smothered sun and the fingers of the frost clamped hard on the desolate valley, the facts were made. The callous hands of the Indian guides, the gaashed forehead, and the youth in whose veins ran the blood of wanderers of the wide north met in a grip which sealed a friendship that was to take them far on a strange history.

"Well," continued McCord, "the joke is on this trader McCord for the Indians took his dogs and money and headed down the coast for Moose. Now he's stranded in there alone, with what do you think? A girl—his daughter. Fancy taking one's daughter into that wild bush!"

Alan followed the other's announcement with an expression of well-feigned surprise on his dark features. So, after all, McCord had been deserted by his men to death.

"Pretty tough on a girl," he agreed.

"How does he hope to trade in there without help?"

"He can't. He'll be showing up down here this summer trying to get help."

The cloud-masked ball of April sun was buried in the drifting fogs of the bay when Alan opened the heavy stone in the middle of the room and seizing the grinning Alan by the shoulders. "Allo, Noel! What happened to you boys?"

"We had bad luck, Pierre," replied Alan. "A wolverine got to our grub and the deer had left the country so we struck for the coast."

Pierre's expression suddenly sobered as he scanned the lean faces of the two men who had come in over the long iron trail from the interior.

"Ba-goosh!" Alan Cameron! What do you here da of April?" cried a tall Frenchman, turning from the big stove in the middle of the room and seizing the grinning Alan by the shoulders. "Allo, Noel! What happened to you boys?"

"We had bad luck, Pierre," replied Alan. "A wolverine got to our grub and the deer had left the country so we struck for the coast."

Pierre's expression suddenly sobered as he scanned the lean faces of the two men who had come in over the long iron trail from the interior.

"But you had enough to get home without dog, did not starve?"

Alan thought of the two men and the dog who had barely reached McCord's cabin as he answered: "We met some Indians."

"Good! But you eat beug suppi wid me tonight. You have good luck wid da fur?"

"Yes, we've got plenty of marten and fox."

The big Pierre's round face lit with pleasure. "Ah-hah! You mak' de beug hunt!" He smiled at the boy he held affectionately by the shoulders. "Tens! I am glad to see you, Alan, and dere ees ander will be glad, eh? Many tans di winter we talk about, together."

Alan's face was stained with color. "How is she?" he asked.

"Oh, purte as evair—but dis Ar-sene." Pierre shrugged his heavy shoulders as his face registered an expression of contempt, "the boderher."

"Rivard! Alan felt cold—at the thought. Arsene Rivard had had all the time in the world to make love to Des'se's oldest daughter. It was what he had feared."

"Shush!" Pierre warned, as the door opened and three men entered the trade-room stamping the wet snow from their moccasins.

"Allo, Cameron! I heard that you had come in to-day." A dark

"Hello, Duncan! You haven't grown a day older since I saw you young man wearing a small moun-

in the summer," laughed Alan, as the surprised clerk gripped their hands, searching the wind-burned faces for signs of starvation that drove men to the fur-posts in early spring.

"And you're not starved out, boys?"

"Do we look it? We've come from the headwaters in fifteen days. That's why we look like caribou in fly time."

"But what drove you off your trap-lines then?"

"De carcajou," explained Noel. "He got to our cache."

"Oh-ho! Wolverine, eh? And you came down on the crust before your grub gave out? Did you bring much fur, lads?" added the always business-like Scotchman.

"Better hunt than last year. I've got some black marten and fox that'll make your mouth water, Duncan. What's the news from outside?" asked Alan, casually, anxious to learn what the Indians of John McCord had told at East Main.

"Aye, lad, there's plenty of news," answered the clerk. "Some Indians came out at East Main in December with a pack of tale."

"What about? Starvation at Nichiun, again?"

"Now, it seems there ain't enough traders already on this coast. There's another one—in on the headwaters."

"What do you mean—a trader—on the headwaters?"

"He went in last summer by way of Rupert. He located somewhere beyond Nichiun, on these headwaters."

"Did you hear that Noel?" demanded Alan of the Indian who lounged against the counter running his eyes over the trade-goods on the shelves while he listened intently to the conversation. "Duncan says he's a new trader in on the headwaters."

"Ah-hah!" Noel's dark face was as bare of expression as though carved from wood. "Ver strange type."

"You didn't run into any hunters who know about the fellow?"

Alan Cameron slowly shook his head when he waited to hear whether McCord's men had deserted him or had started back with the dogs and supplies they had been sent for.

"Well," continued McCord, "the joke is on this trader McCord for the Indians took his dogs and money and headed down the coast for Moose. Now he's stranded in there alone, with what do you think? A girl—his daughter. Fancy taking one's daughter into that wild bush!"

A Blind Gold Miner

Sights for Ten Years Drills And Blasts in Darkness

There's no light on his miner's cap. No sunshine seeps along his 600-foot shaft. James Newman drills and blasts in darkness—just as he has for 10 years.

Newman is sightless, blinded in a blasting mishap in 1929. He waited until his wounds healed, then back he went to his claim and his cabin in the Wasatch Mountains just east of Salt Lake City.

Now his mine runs 600 feet into the hillside. He tunneled every inch of it, driving, blasting, cracking, rail cutting, and tie cutting. The shaft is eight feet high, planned that way so he won't bump his head.

Newman can tell exactly where his drifts lead off from the main tunnel. Only one factor in his quest for "pay dirt" stumps him—he must depend on friends to describe rock that may contain ore.

He's taken out some gold, but the "strike"—that goal that leads all miners on—still eludes him.

Now 46, Newman, a bachelor, lives alone at his mine, going to "town" about every three months for supplies. Friends marvel at how deftly and quickly he finds his tools and fires his shot.

Strange Tribe

TRY To Solve Mystery Of Early Settlers In British Columbia

The progress of prospectors in the Nass Lake area of central Vancouver Island is being watched by historians who are less interested in the discovery of gold than they are in a clue to the fate of British Columbia's first immigrants.

The mystery is what became of a group of Chinese settlers in British Columbia to establish a colony at Nasska, on the west coast of the Island. The Chinese were seized by the Spaniards and according to Captain John Meares, were put to work mining gold.

There is no official record of what happened to those early settlers but legend says the Chinese withdrew to the interior of the Island after a few skirmishes with distrustful coast Indians. They are said to have taken native wives with them.

In the ensuing years there have been recurrent rumors of a strange tribe on Nass Lake which speaks the west coast dialect. Historians are hoping prospectors may uncover some trace of descendants of the original Chinese.

No Longer Possible

Drivers Cannot Take Chances On Going To Sleep

In several accidents recently, it has been noted that the driver dozed off behind the wheel, the result generally being a car in the ditch or against a pole, the other occupants of the car being killed or injured. To repeat, driving should not be carried on in the dark or over-tired, fatigued, and such circumstances it is best to halt the car in some quiet place and take a nap or at least complete relaxation for a few minutes before attempting to continue the journey.

Traffic is too heavy nowadays for the driver to go to sleep. That was all right in the horse and buggy days when the horse might be expected to find his way home, but that went out when men changed from horses and buggies to automobiles. In the old days one might have forty winks without anything serious happening, but that longer is possible.

It is good, therefore, to know that Mr. and Mrs. Butchart have arranged that the helpful thing they have created with their money, their thought and labor, shall be preserved in perpetuity.—Vancouver Sun.

Laws Against Eating

Old Regulations in Britain Curtailed

Quantity And Class Of Food

The recent Nazi view that eating is a form of high treason recalls the fact that in England not many years ago overeating, if not high treason, was legally a crime. Until July 1856, it was technically unlawful for a man to have more than two courses at dinner and supper, although upon special occasions he might be permitted three. This statute of Edward III's sumptuary laws was not repealed 1856.

In England severe sumptuary laws were enacted in the reigns of Edward III, Edward IV, and Henry VIII. For long a man dared not eat what he fancied. The poorer classes, for instance, were forbidden to eat certain foods and wheaten bread. That was reserved for "their betters" — the poor being permitted to eat only coarse bread made from peasemeal and other unattractive substances.—Manchester Guardian.

Alan's face was stained with color. "How is she?" he asked.

Dangerous Speeding
Should be Stopped

Complaints have been made to The Journal on excessive and dangerous speeds of delivery truck drivers and drivers of cars hauling mine props through town eastward. Not only is there danger to others, but considerable damage is done to the surfaced roads of the town by such unnecessary speeds. More than a warning is required to bring offenders to time.

The Canadian Wheat Board

In this issue, we are printing an advertisement of the Canadian Wheat Board respecting the 5,000 bushel limit on deliveries to the Board. Every farmer and land-owner should read these instructions carefully so that all risks of offending the Act will be avoided.

It will be noted that every person who sells wheat to the Board in excess of 5,000 bushels and in breach of the regulations set out in the advertisement is guilty of an offence and punishable by summary conviction by fine or imprisonment. It is the earnest hope of the Wheat Board that wide publication and understanding of those regulations will prevent any infringement of the law and that all producers will co-operate to this end. The Board will have inspectors checking deliveries at the elevators and farms to assist in administration of the Act.

Any farmer or other person entitled under the Act to wheat grown on a farm who is in doubt regarding his position is invited to write to the Board submitting full details regarding his case.

Pucksters Lose Two Games to Turner Vall'y*Will Complete Series at Blairmore on Sunday and Monday

Coleman Pucksters were set back on their heels twice on Sunday when Turner Valley Oilers scored a double triumph in the second round of the provincial intermediate baseball playoffs. According to the Pucksters management the officiating was terrible and had much to do with Pucksters being two games behind.

Marconi pitched beautiful ball in the first game but was charged with a 3-2 defeat. In the second game Seaman became sick in the third innings and was relieved by Marconi who pitched the remainder of the game. It was during this game that several arguments took place between the official umpire and the Coleman management and which threatened to develop into a Donnybrook.

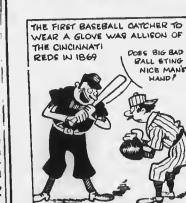

On Sunday next Pucksters will meet the Oilers at Blairmore Stadium, the venue of this game being decided by the A.A.A.A. Marconi will again take the mound for the locals. Seaman or Schnef will be available for the second game should that be necessary.

First game will be played at 2 p.m. and the second at 5 p.m. if necessary. Should Coleman win both games the fifth and final game will be played at Blairmore on Monday evening.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rippon on their return from their vacation at Vancouver were Mr. and Mrs. D. H. McLean, of Nova Scotia, and Miss R. Smyth, of Vancouver. Mrs. W. Cooke and daughter Barbara of Vancouver are also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rippon.

Miss Carrie A. Perry of Vancouver is the guest of Mrs. H. T. Halliwell.

A meeting of parishioners of St. Albans church will be held in the parish hall on Tuesday, August 29, at 7:30 p.m.
